

To the lady who telephoned the office one day last week and asked why we weren't publishing the Westbrook Pegler column I owe an apology — for my explanation at that time wasn't at all accurate.

I told her that some times the paper is crowded — particularly when we are trying to avoid two sections and two press runs — and Pegler and other features are eliminated for the day.

Something about her voice reminded me my explanation was short of satisfactory. So I checked up on the Pegler matter — and is my face red!

The guy has been on vacation for a month... and I didn't know it.

He's due back this week — Tuesday, May 23, according to the New York syndicate which handles him.

But it's rough to have to admit you're paying for a columnist and hadn't actually missed him.

In self-defense I should explain that Pegler comes over our telegraph wire five days a week, and wire items are taken as a matter of course — if they are missing there's supposed to be a good and valid reason, illness, vacation, what have you.

After a month of it — I'm telling you.

Anyway, it's nice to know he's missed. I guess we publish Pegler out of sheer obstinacy — he costs as much as a high-priced comic strip. Readers' reaction to Pegler is well known: Many read him and then jump up and down in rage — but they come back for more. It used to be that way, too, 25 years ago when Pegler was covering sports for the old Chicago Tribune-New York News special wire. Ball players reading his account of the game next morning would look him up at his hotel with the sound idea of either whipping him or dying in the attempt.

An AP feature reminds me that this is the 500th anniversary of the birth of printing.

In 145, John Gutenberg, member of a patrician German family, borrowed 800 guilders from John Fust, a goldsmith, and got busy at Mainz, Germany, the first print-shop in the world to use individual type letters. There he printed the historic 42-line Gutenberg Bible.

The copyists — who up to that time had a monopoly of writing out books by hand — raised Cain about this labor-saving invention.

When Gutenberg's partner, Fust, went to Paris in 1465 to sell some of their printed books the copyists accused the printer of black magic because each book was exactly like every other book in the edition.

Gutenberg was accused of witchcraft, says the AP, lost his books — and was lucky to escape with his life. But his invention flourished.

Continues the AP: "A printer was not just an ordinary workman. In some countries he was almost a 'gentleman' when 'gentleman' was more than a courtesy title."

That's why, centuries later, Benjamin Franklin stood equal to — or above — the top professional men of American colonial days. He was a skilled craftsman in an art which had to be No. 1 in a republic whose people needed plentiful and cheap printing if they were to be well informed and make the idea of democratic government a success.

This is the 500th anniversary of the discovery of printing — do you realize the impact it has had on the world? It has preserved that which would otherwise have been lost as each generation of men stood upon the stage of life, spoke or wrote heroic pieces — and then died, their text vanishing in the wind as the faulty memories of succeeding generations reduced a once-great performance to mere legend.

I have been reading a current book, "Shakespeare of London," by Mervyn Chute, and on page 133 is this striking paragraph: "Shakespeare's company (Chamberlain's Company of Actors) did him one further service as a playwright and this was a vitally important one. They kept the original text of all his plays intact, and in the end saw to it that they were all published. No other playwright of the period had such a service done for him, and three-fourths of the plays written during this period have vanished."

Was Shakespeare our greatest dramatist — or did printing make him so by the alchemy of permanence?

Mill Accident Is Fatal to R. M. Bruner

R. M. Bruner, 58, Hope manufacturer, died about 12:30 p.m. today from injuries suffered about 10 a.m. at his Paddle and Oak Factory in the Proving Ground.

A lathe pattern on which he was working slipped out and struck him in the stomach. He was carried to his home where he died approximately two hours later of internal injuries.

Mr. Bruner came to Hope in 1933 as a partner in the Bruner-Ivory Handle Co. here. He withdrew as a partner several years ago and established the R. M. Bruner Paddle and Oak Company which last year moved its plant to the industrial area of the Southwestern Proving Ground.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ruth Bruner, two daughters, Mrs. Gibson Robertson of St. Louis, Mo., Naomi Bruner of Southwestern Bible Institute, Waxahatchie, Texas, two sons Jack of the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, and Richard Bruner of Hope, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Bruner, a brother, W. C. Bruner and a sister, Mrs. Guy E. Bayse, all of Hope.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

West Nations Open Naval Maneuvers

Portland, England, May 22 — (AP) — Western union navies self-consciously opened hush-hush sea maneuvers today — with 30 dead-pan Soviet skippers within radar range.

The Russian mothership Tambov and her 29 trawlers and coasters — officially on a sprat and sardine fishing jaunt from the Baltic to the Black sea — were off Falmouth yesterday when the British cruisers Superb and Cleopatra plus four destroyers left Portland for the maneuver areas south of Britain.

Then the Russians upped anchor and moved nine miles westward to Mounts Bay, when they re-anchored.

"Just changing anchorage" was the Soviet reply to a hopeful message from shore officials.

First moves in the maneuvers are slated for today, when three Dutch submarines pull out of Portland on their way to the maneuver areas. The Royal Air Force coastal command planned mock attacks on them.

Yesterday, the British aircraft carrier Theseus — which is not taking part in the maneuvers — popped up unannounced in Mounts Bay beside the Russians.

The admiralty said nothing officially was known of her presence there but a spokesman couldn't see "any particular significance" in it.

Since the maneuver areas are well down in the Bay of Biscay, the sprit fishermen would have to pass right through them if they're en route to the Black sea as advertised.

Russian conversation with curious newsmen was limited to "we fish."

Navy officers here kept the admiralty in London posted on movements of the sprat fleet, British newspapers were highly suspicious, and enterprising South coast boatmen were running trips "around the Russian fleet" at eight shillings ($1.12) a trip.

Widow of P. B. Newspaperman Succumbs

Pine Bluff, May 22 — (AP) — Funeral services were to be held here this afternoon for Mrs. Blanche Newman Freeman, 33, widow of the late E. W. Freeman, publisher of the Pine Bluff Commercial.

She died at a hospital here yesterday from complications resulting from a broken hip, suffered in a fall at her home last week.

She was a native of Drew county, the daughter of the late Major Charles C. and Marianna Coleman Newman. Her father founded the Commercial here in 1868.

In 1901, Major Newman and her husband founded a partnership to publish the paper. Freeman, who died in 1945, was the first president of the Arkansas Associated Press organization. After her husband's death, Mrs. Freeman served as vice-president of the commercial printing company, which now publishes the paper.

She is survived by two sons, Gordon N. Freeman, El Dorado, Ark., and E. W. Freeman, Jr., Pine Bluff.

Probers to Get Records of Gamblers

Washington, May 22 — (AP) — New York District Attorney Frank Hogan has promised to throw open to senate crime hunters the business records of Frank Erickson, $12,500,000-a-year gambler.

Chairman Kefauver (D-Tenn.) of a special senate investigating committee said the group will look into the records as part of its general probe into organized crime.

The Kefauver group has set itself the task of locating the underworld's hidden wealth, disclosing how it is amassed, and uncovering any ties between the underworld and political groups.

Erickson acknowledged to a senate commerce subcommittee that he is a gambler, that his business grosses $20,000 to $40,000 a day and that he profited at the rate of $100,000 a year.

After this testimony in Washington, New York police seized Erickson's business records. Assistant District Attorney Alfred H. Scott said they showed Erickson gets a cut from the profits of a Florida casino — and that he has business links with a Frank Costello.

Scott's disclosure drew the interest of senator who had heard Erickson testify under oath that he now has no financial interest in a casino. Erickson also said he has no business connections with the Frank Costello reputed to be a big shot in the gambling world, except in the ownership of some Texas oil wells.

Senator Tobey (R-NH) told reporters he wants the senate commerce subcommittee — studying anti-gambling legislation — to recall Erickson and Costello.

"I'd like to question them about discrepancies in their testimony," Tobey said.

Chairman McFarland (D-Ariz.) said the subcommittee may turn this inquiry over to the Kefauver committee without re-opening anti-gambling hearings.

Kefauver said he had discussed with McFarland the possibility of the special senate committee taking over any further questioning of Erickson and Costello.

Earthquake Leaves 50 Dead in Peru

Lima, Peru, May 22 — (AP) — An emergency airlift today rushed doctors, medical supplies and food to the ancient Andes city of Cuzco, devastated yesterday by a 13-second earthquake. At least 50 persons were reported killed and 178 others injured in the once-thriving seat of Inca civilization.

Peru's President Manuel Odría to the stricken city, 340 miles to the stricken city, 340 miles southeast of Lima. The peruvian health director called on all available doctors and nurses to go to Cuzco at once.

The quake, which struck at 1:45 p. m. (EST), sent many of the city's 45,000 residents rushing into the streets while centuries-old stone buildings crashed down. Terrified citizens knelt in prayer before a statue of Christ in Cuzco's main plaza, a radio broadcast from the isolated provincial capital said.

Until the rescue parties search the Cuzco ruins the number of casualties will not be known, before a radio broadcast from there late last night said the deaths "have risen to 50" and the number of injured to 178.

A government communique said the nearby town of San Sebastian also has been hit by the quake and had suffered heavy damage.

The communique said the casualty toll in Cuzco probably would have been far greater except for the fact that some 15,000 persons were watching a football game in the town stadium when the quake struck. None of the spectators was believed hurt.

It was reported that the Hotel Turista, where most foreign visitors stay, was not damaged. Cuzco is a popular center for tourists who come to see the ancient Inca ruins and historic churches.

South Amboy Still Hearing Explosions

South Amboy, N. J., May 22 — (AP) — Banged citizens are still hearing explosions today in the ruins of the South Amboy waterfront.

Twenty tons of phosphorus shot flames 100 feet into the air yesterday, setting off scores of land mines amid the wreckage of the weekend blast disaster that took 27 lives.

Army demolition officers, combing the area with mine detectors, said blasts would continue for an other day or two before the waterfront is safe. They had picked up over 3,000 mines at a late hours yesterday.

Four barges, laden with munitions en route from Newark, N. J. to Pakistan, exploded Friday with a roar heard across the state. The blast left a death toll of 27, injured 350 persons with flying glass in all parts of the town, and did property damage estimated at $7,500,000.

The phosphorus fire startled residents anew as a fast-spreading blaze zigzagged through about 50 barges, raising a pall of ominous white smoke over the stricken city.

State police said the phosphorus drums may have been cracked open by Friday's blast, or by a mine detonated by army men. Phosphorus ignites when exposed to air.

The burning chemical set off about 100 more mines. The fire was in the blast-shattered grounds of the American Agricultural company, adjacent to the area of Friday's explosion.

For a time it was feared that a shift in the wind might blow harmful fumes over the city. However, police said later that there was no panic and no danger of a general evacuation.

Exploding mines kept firemen at a respectful distance, but the fire was brought under control within a short time. It was finally decided to let it burn itself out over night.

Little Jerry May Loses His Fight to Overcome Leukemia; Funeral Held 4 p. m. Sunday

Little Jerry May, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert May of Bodcaw, died late Saturday night in a Texarkana hospital. He was a victim of leukemia.

Funeral services were held at 4 p. m. Sunday at Bodcaw No. 2 and burial was in Union cemetery.

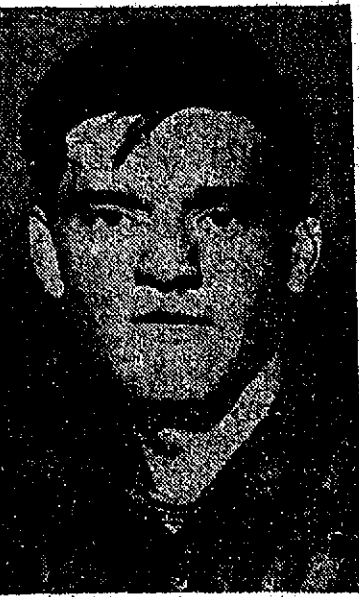

Jerry had been ill since Thanksgiving 1949. In January of this year his family took him to Boston for treatments which gave him temporary relief. Hundreds of citizens in this section donated more than $1,000.00 to help Jerry's family give him all the medical aid possible.

Only last week an appeal went out for blood donors as Jerry had to have a pint a day to stay alive. Many persons from south Arkansas, East Texas and Louisiana responded but despite all Jerry died.

He is survived by his parents and a brother, Jimmy May. Mr. and Mrs. May this morning issued a statement thanking all the people of this section;

"We would like to thank everyone for their many kindnesses to us and to Jerry. Especially do we thank those who gave money, donated their blood and time in an effort to help our son. May God bless you all."

Truman Assails Russia for U. N. Boycott

Washington, May 22 — (AP) — President Truman today assailed Russia's boycott of the United Nations over the Chinese Communist issue as a "willful flouting" of the U. N. charter.

He told congress the world organization is "sensibly carrying on business as usual."

The chief executive attacked the Russian refusal to attend U. N. sessions with Chinese Nationalist delegates, in a report to congress in which he also said that the year 1949 produced a tightening of the East-West conflict.

After reviewing numerous specific issues on which he said the Soviets blocked constructive action in the U. N. last year, Mr. Truman declared:

"The year ended with a deepening of the tension which has marked international relations throughout the postwar period."

He said this was true for many reasons — which still hold good in the middle of 1950. Among them he listed failure to agree on an atomic control program, failure to progress toward ending the armaments race, and the tendency of the Soviets, while blocking German and Japanese peace settlements, to isolate themselves increasingly from the rest of the world.

In this connection the President noted for the first time in a United Nations report that Russia now has "possession of the atomic weapon." He gave the world the first official Western report last September 23 when he announced "an atomic explosion" had occurred in the Soviet Union.

The U. N. report was prepared by the state department and Mr. Truman submitted it to congress with a letter setting forth his personal views.

The letter and report made clear that the President intends to strive for the U. N. as a universal organization — that is, including the Communist as well as the Western powers. At the same time he emphasized that within this framework the American government intends to do everything it can to strengthen the west and block present Soviet policies.

Two Killed in Auto Accidents Near Hope

Two persons were killed and three injured, one critically, in a series of accidents near Hope Sunday.

John Wilhite, 54, Chicago, was killed and two others seriously injured when two cars collided about 1 a. m. Sunday a half mile south of Emmet on Highway 10. His body was shipped to Chicago today for burial.

The accident early Sunday morning in which a Chicago man was killed was almost a 3-way affair.

Kinard Young, traveling behind the Lester automobile, came around a curve and upon seeing cars about the time they collided. Unable to stop, Mr. Young went between the two vehicles as they were in the air, crashing from one cracked his windshield — otherwise no damage resulted.

An examination later showed the space through which Mr. Young drove was closed when the cars came to rest. The Hope man stopped and gave assistance to the wreck victims.

John Hartland, also of Chicago, who was riding westward, was cut and bruised but released from the local hospital.

John Bullock, 20, Hope youth in critical condition in a hospital by a head-end injury.

Donald Joe Laster, 18, driver of the car in which Bullock was riding, suffered a broken collar bone and face lacerations.

Youth Killed

In another accident about a. m. Sunday a 12-year-old Negro boy, Leo Hill, was killed instantly when a car driven by Meyer Rosenberg, 35, Alameda, struck the bicycle on which he was riding about 3 miles west of Highway 97.

Oscar McPherson, who was the bicycle with Hill in a hospital. He is not believed to be critically injured.

Rosenberg was arrested on a coroner's inquest held today at Hope City Hall. It is hoped at the inquest that there is no negligence or criminal intent on the part of the Memphis State Patrolman Guy Downing testified that an investigation dictated the youths were crossing the Highway on the bicycle.

About 4 a. m. Sunday auto bles driven by Frank S. Saratoga Negro and Christina Saratoga, Mineral Springs, New woman, collided head-on on Highway 55, 4 miles north of Hope. The occupants suffered only slight injuries. Both cars were damaged.

Two minor accidents were reported by city police over week-end. Autos driven by Tom Schroeder, Littlefield, Mich., and B. T. Ward of Culendale collided at the stoplight at 3rd and Elm yesterday afternoon resulting in minor damage to both vehicles.

About 11 a. m. yesterday driven by Mrs. Corbin Foster, Hope collided with another car driven by Mrs. Sallie Dugney at Elm Division streets. Small damage resulted.

The accidents were investigated by Patrolman Downing, Milton Mosier and city police.

Court Upholds Legality of Liquor Act

Little Rock, May 2 — (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme court ruled today that the state's liquor fair trade practices act is constitutional.

The 4-1 decision upheld a Pulaski Chancery court ruling. The act, No. 82 of 1949, fixes liquor prices and provides for additional liquor investigators for the state revenue department. State Rep. J. A. Gipson of Benton had attacked validity of the law.

Senators Have Busy Week Ahead

Washington, May 22 — (AP) — Military, draft and foreign aid legislation will keep the house of representatives busy this week while the senate wrangles over civil rights and reorganization.

Crowded onto the calendar of the week, which hopes to get a long Memorial day holiday next week, are bills to extend the draft law, to speed up the navy's anti-submarine warfare program, to continue the Marshall plan and to construct a far flung system of military public works.

If it gets time this week, the house also wants to dispose of a $825,000,000 deficiency appropriation bill, an election contest from Michigan and several less controversial measures.

Some house leaders are talking of a recess of a week or more starting next week, but no decision has been made. The thought is that the house should give the senate time to catch up with major bills already passed by the house but not acted on by the senate.

Three big house measures have been sent to the senate: A fair employment practices bill, an omnibus $29,000,000,000 appropriation measure and a social security bill. Southern opposition to the FEPC bill has stalled the senate for more than a week and it is still the pending business there.

It may again be set aside for a vote on some presidential reorganization plans, five of which already have been vetoed by the senate. Plans not disapproved by either branch of congress go into effect on Wednesday.

The foreign aid bill awaiting house action is a compromise between different versions passed previously by both branches. Not

Mr. Troutt

C. W. Troutt, of Lebanon, Tenn., well-known manager of square dances and operator of several trucks, now joins in a few steps of the dancing, much to the amazement of friends who know how severe aches and pains of neuritis have made him almost an invalid for some time.

"This blessed relief came to Mr. Troutt as HADACOL helped overcome his deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. This relief came to him after these horrible pains had haunted him, making it possible for him to carry on his business activities only through sheer determination. He didn't let aches and pains kill his spirits, however.

Then, one of the musicians at his square dances brought him a large economy-size bottle of HADACOL.

Gave Him HADACOL

"I am tired of seeing you suffer with these aches and pains," said the musician. "I bought you this big bottle myself because I want to see you start getting well."

Here is Mr. Troutt's own story: "I have suffered with aches and pains of neuritis for some time. I have tried dozens of preparations but have had little relief. My greatest pains have been in my knees and ankles and recently there have been pains in my wrists. One of the greatest horrors was to be unable to sleep at night. Since taking HADACOL I have been able to sleep and it is wonderful to get rid of those terrible pains in the knees, ankles and wrists. I have found in HADACOL the only relief that has come after years of search."

You'll Feel Great . . .

. . . with the first few bottles you take, or your money back. There is only one HADACOL and it is sold on a strict money-back guarantee. So give this remarkable HADACOL medicine a chance to help you if you suffer from deficiencies of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. Remember that HADACOL is amazingly different and amazingly effective because it treats the real cause of such troubles. Make up your mind to take HADACOL regularly. Refuse substitutes. Insist on the genuine. You can't lose a cent, because it's sold on a strict money-back guarantee. Only $1.25 for Trial size. Large Family or Hospital size, $3.50.

State Home Demonstration Agent Dies

Little Rock, May 22 — (AP) — Death yesterday ended the 33-year career of Arkansas State Home Demonstration Agent Connie J. Bonslagel.

Miss Bonslagel, 64, was found unconscious in her apartment. Removed to a hospital, she died a short time later.

She was found by firemen who forced the door of the sixth-floor apartment after residents of the one below had reported water leaking through the ceiling. Miss Bonslagel was lying unconscious across the bed and water from an open faucet in the bathroom had flowed into the bedroom.

A native of Mississippi, she attended Mississippi State College for Women and had done postgraduate work at Peabody college, Tulane university and Columbia university.

She had been state home demonstration agent for the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture since 1917, a period during which home demonstration clubs increased from 150 to 1,600 and membership from 250 to 40,000.

Miss Bonslagel also was a leader in raising money to start construction of the $140,000 girls 4-H club cooperative house on the University of Arkansas campus.

She is survived by one sister, Mrs. W. S. Gordon, Carpenter, Miss and a brother, K. K. Bonslagel, Jackson, Miss.

Funeral services will be held in her home in Memphis, Tenn. on Friday after a visit with her mother Mrs. C. C. Hamby.

Mr. and Mrs. Wells Hamby have had as their recent guest Miss Betty Rene Hamby and Wade Ward of Little Rock.

Red Eases Its Hold on Winnipeg

Winnipeg, May 22 — (AP) — The rampaging Red river eased its hold today on the twin cities of Winnipeg and St. Boniface as the flood-swollen waters slowly began to ebb.

Early this morning the official reading here had dropped one inch in the last 18 hours. Still greater drops were reported all along the river's tortuous course from flood-emerson at the international border.

The weather forecast brightened hopes, too. Drying winds were predicted, with only occasional scattered showers throughout the Red River valley.

It seemed apparent that the Red's wobbly crest had passed beyond the metropolitan area toward Lake Winnipeg. The public was cautioned against over-optimism, however.

The army, directing flood control operations in the river valley, warned that there is a long way to go before all danger ends. Their warning was pointed up early today when the river knocked out one of three bridges connecting the twin cities. Only two were left in action — shaky Redwood and Provencher, reopened by a temporary gravel causeway only a few days ago.

D. M. Stephens, provincial minister of natural resources, said in general the official outlook in "ten encouragingly good."

Yesterday the river, after hovering for 32 hours within 1.4 inches of its 30.3-foot peak, slid a half-inch. At 2 a.m. EST it had dropped to 30.1 — the lowest it has been since May 16, although still nearly 12 feet above the flood level stage.

Crosby's appearance drew attention usually reserved for royalty. He had normally dour Scottish features twirling their kilts in excitement.

He had to skip the practice round yesterday on championship St. Andrews' old course, where the sabbath is observed strictly. Instead, he played a single tune-up on a lesser known local course.

Congress In Arguments Over Oil

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, May 22 — (P) — There's a fierce argument about oil, or rather about what imported oil is doing to some parts of the American oil industry, the coal industry, and railroads.

A senate subcommittee begins hearings on this today under the chairmanship of Senator Neely, a sharp-spoken Democrat of West Virginia, a coal state. He's had some strong things to say about imported oil.

Roughly, there are three kinds of oil: crude, which is the oil from the ground before it's refined into things like gasoline; refined; and residual oil, left-over product of the refining process.

This residual oil is one of the very sore points in the argument. It's used in home-heating and industrial plants where, otherwise, coal might be used.

This country, the most highly developed oil country in the world, produces crude oil, refines it, and, of course, turns out residual oil, too.

Because it has such a vast refining set-up, the United States can export refined oil. It doesn't have to import any of that. But it does import the crude and residual oil.

Some of the biggest oil companies do the importing from the middle East and Venezuela, where they have oil interests and where the oil can be produced cheaper than in this country.

They bring it in and sell it here at prices which are tough for its American competitors: American coal and the residual oil turned out by the smaller independent oil companies.

On May 10 Senator Neely complained to the senate bitterly about this. He said of the imported stuff:

"It is depriving American oil producers and coal operations of their markets and diminishing their profits. It is constantly closing mines in such coal-producing states as Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Alabama, Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee."

"It is causing widespread unemployment, impoverishment, and distress in the coal, oil-refining, and railroad industries of the nation. (The railroads make money carrying coal) American businessmen, miners, railroaders, and refinery workers are being sacrificed on the altar of six giant, profit-seeking importing corporations."

(He didn't name the six giants but six of the biggest companies with holdings in the Middle East and-or Venezuela are: Standard of California, Standard of New Jersey, The Texas company, Socony Vacuum, Gulf, and the Atlantic Refining company.)

The tariff on the imported stuff is 10 1/2 cents a barrel. The imported residual oil for homes and plants can be sold for about $2 a barrel. About four such barrels ($8) equal about one ton of coal which is sold for a little more. And American residual oil has to compete with this price, too.

Some foes of the imported oil want this government to raise the tariff on it, thus forcing up the price and making it less a competitor for American oil and coal.

The importers argue that im-

50 Witnesses in Memphis Liquor Hijacking Case

Memphis, Tenn., May 22 — (P) — The trial of seven men charged with possessing $2,000 worth of hijacked whisky went into its second week here today with some 50 government witnesses yet to be heard.

Federal prosecutors already have called a band of armed men stopped a truck near Cairo, Ill., and took over its liquor load.

Only one of town defendant is Gordon A. Sinsley, 41, a Louisville, Ky., restaurant operator. The other six are J. A. Pearson, 33; W. M. Peagram, 35; W. J. Harris, 69 Horace Twitty, 3; Napoleon Maxwell, 22, and Anderson Haynes. All are free on bond. Nine men were indicted in the case.

here, that a certain amount of this imported oil always was necessary anyway. They protest against restrictions on imports, of course.

Some of the arguments about restrictions on imported oil go like this:

1. This country has to conserve its oil supplies, and importing from other countries helps do that.

2. But if the competition from the imports forces some of the dependents to shut down, this country in an emergency, like war, will be just that much less ready to turn out all of its own oil it needs.

3. If the imported oil was cut down by law some way, would the American oil prices be kited, once the sharp competition, which forces prices down, was gone?

4. And what of coal? In the long run, would a reduction in the imported oil help the coal industry? Or is it really a dying industry, doomed anyway to yield year by year to oil, whether American or imported?

5. But American industry and workers need protection against cheap foreign conditions if this country's standard of living is to be maintained.

case, but two of them were granted separate trials. They are David H. Glass, 35, suspended Tennessee Highway Patrol lieutenant, and Frank Bellusini, 66 Memphis restaurant operator.

The whisky was being shipped from Sawrensburgh, Ind., to Cairo. The armed gang stopped it Dec. 31 on the highway, held the driver prisoner and took over the truck, load and all.

The trading deadline for major league teams is June 1. WORLD'S LARGEST SELLER AT 10¢ WHY MORE? St. Joseph's

The LONESOME BRIDE

By Grace Nies Fletcher.

Copyright 1950 by NEA Service, Inc.

THIS STORY: When Gloria Brown, bride of four months, asks her next door neighbor, Mrs. Henson, to show her how to make apple pie, a murder scene is the aftermath. The Benonis disappear and Gloria and her husband Miltiades, the son of a Boston college professor, discover a dead man in the dishwasher. The police arrive and discover a body and Gloria and Miltiades seem to be under suspicion from Lieutenant Nathan Homicide.

we don't know exactly what, and he got on the outs and was sent up for five years. The Cork snatched on him. Jack was called the Cork because he was very fond of champagne, and once he'd pulled the cork he never put the bottle down till it was empty. An expensive habit, so he had to steal occasionally; and when soused, he was very careless with a knife.

"I'm getting mixed up. I thought it was he who was knifed!" Gloria murmured.

The lieutenant nodded unhappily. "He was. And you are not the only one who is mixed up, because we have been watching the Benonis and now they are gone and the emeralds are gone—and so is Jack the Cork. It could be the Benonis killed him themselves, before they skipped with the jewels."

"Using my knife and getting him neatly delivered on our dumbwaiter," Miltiades commented bitterly. "Why did they pick on us for the fall guys?"

"If they did," the lieutenant amended gently, getting up. "After all, it was your knife and ownership of the murder weapon."

He left it at that, asking, "You say you work at 194 Broadway?"

MILTIADES nodded and looked actively miserable, for the company was not going to like this sort of publicity over an emerald and jobs were getting scarce.

"Good grief, I'd better call the boss!" he recalled suddenly. "I didn't even tell him I was leaving this morning; I just walked out.
Maybe," he said uneasily, "I'd better go tell him myself about this mess. Not over the phone."

"Want a lift?" the lieutenant offered. "I think I'll take a run over to Ariadne's. Don't worry.
There won't be anything about you in the papers—yet. The reporters' war cry will be for the Benonis.
But don't decide to take a trip,
you two, see?"

"Okay. Thank you, but I'll take the subway," Miltiades refused the ride. The idea of drawing up to the office in a Black Maria, even disguised as a black radio car, was somehow repugnant. "You all right now, Kitten?"

"I am far from all right but I'll do something about it at once," Gloria said, making a rueful face at her disheveled self in the mirror. "I feel like the leper in the Bible, 'Unclean, unclean!' I shall burn everything I have on in the incinerator. Is there any reason why we should not go to Jones'
Beach for a swim when Miltiades gets back? I should like to get out of here."

"Go ahead," the lieutenant told her. "But don't get excited if you spot someone following you.
Checking on you, yes, but more for protection."

Snyder to Talk at Meeting of State Bankers

Hot Springs, May 22 — (AP) — Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder, a native of Jonesboro, will describe "Arkansas, Land of Opportunity" at the 60th annual convention of the Arkansas Bankers association opening here tomorrow.

The cabinet member will speak at the Wednesday morning session. Other speakers will include Governor McMath and F. Raymond Peterson, Paterson, N.J., president of the American Bankers association.

Curley's "Musical Cows"

They were riding Curley Lawson the other night because he's been serenading his cows with music from an old radio he hooked up in his barn.

"What if the cows start dancing?" inquires Squint Miller. "No, they're high-brow" puts in some one else. "They only give milk when they hear classical music!"

Curley just smiles and says, "You go right ahead and have fun. Only it so happens the cows are giving more milk." That kind of slowed the boys up. And from the thoughtful look on Squint's face

I wouldn't be surprised if there was a radio in his barn by now.

From where I sit, making things more pleasant and improving surroundings usually pays off. A good example of this is the way Andy runs his Garden Tavern. He co-operates with the Brewers' Self-Regulation Program that emphasizes the importance of clean, attractive, pleasant surroundings. With a place of business, as with a person—looking right usually leads to feeling right and doing right.

DOROTHY DIX Which Comes First?

Dear Miss Dix: There is a lot of arguing in our office about whether a man should give his greatest love to his wife or his mother, and which he should prefer above the other. Some of the men claim that a man's mother should always be more to him than his wife, while others hold that after marriage the mother should step aside and give place to the wife. We would appreciate very much knowing what you think on the subject.

ter how intelligent mother is nor how hard she tries to keep up with the times. A man may dutifully take mother around with him wherever he goes, but if he is an average man they have really little in common. It is an abnormal companionship. A man needs as a mate a woman of his own age and his own generation. A man talks to his mother, but he thinks aloud to his wife if he is married to a woman he loves.

A. P. T.
Answer: I don't think there ever should be any argument on the subject, because a man's love for his mother and his love for his wife are two entirely different emotions and they do not conflict with each other. To ask whether a man should love his mother or his wife best is just as absurd as asking which he likes the best, roast beef or ice cream.

Can't Replace Wife
No matter how devoted a man take the place to him of romantic love. Nor does mother's companionship suffice a man, no matter how devoted a man take the place to him of romantic love. Nor does mother's companionship suffice a man, no matter how devoted a man take the place to him of romantic love.

W. C. Blewster, Magnolia, president of the Arkansas association, will give his address tomorrow morning.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am engaged to be married to a young woman whom I love very much. But — She is the youngest child in her family, and very much spoiled. Has always had her way about everything, and I have to give in to her about everything to keep the peace.

She insists on living close to her mother. Says she will never go away from her mother, no matter if it was very much to my interest to go to another city to live.

I have caught her in many untruths she has told me. I have been trying to figure whether it is a good thing to interest my all in this matrimonial venture. What do you say?

FRANK

Answer: If you were going into partnership with another man, you would not pick out one who was selfish, self-centered, arbitrary and hard to get along with, would you? Nor would you select a man who wouldn't back you up into doing whatever was best for the firm. And you would never, never tie up with a man who was a liar and whose words you couldn't trust. Why, then, choose that kind of woman for a wife?

Such women are a curse to those who marry them, and my advice to you is to let mamma's darling alone. Also avoid the girl who says that she will never leave her mother. The right sort of wife gives her first allegiance to her husband and is ready to go wherever his fortunes call him.

Dear Miss Dix: Will you please tell us why some men remain true to their wives while others are unfaithful to wives who possess every charm and virtue? In spite of much evidence to the contrary, I still believe that there are husbands who are loyal to the women they marry and I want to know why.

IRENE
Answer: I think the answer is that men are true or untrue, according to their nature. Some men crave constant change and excitement. Others stay put wherever they are. And some men have a higher sense of honor and loyalty and duty than other men. And this includes wives as well as financial obligations.

Socialist May Ease Up on Projects

London, May 22 — (AP) — Britain's Labor government chiefs indicated today they may water down their Socialist projects and try to rule for at least another year with their skimpy majority in parliament.

The party strategy, details of which are still secret, was mapped at a week-end meeting of Prime Minister Attlee, top cabinet ministers, trade union leaders and spokesmen for the cooperative movement.

When the talks ended Labor leaders let the news leak they were ready for an election at any time — but as some Laborites see it the next national election may be put off until as late as the autumn of 1951.

There is always a chance, however, that Winston Churchill's Conservatives can force a new election sooner by taking advantage of a sudden surge of illness that might upset Labor's six-vote majority in commons on a major issue.

Most Britons had expected, that the Labor government would agree to an election by this fall to avoid the constant strain of requiring all Labor members to attend every session of parliament.

The new strategy of trying to stave off an election as long as possible looked like a victory for deputy Premier Herbert Morrison, boss of the Labor party's political machinery, who has long urged wooing the British middle class vote.

Clay tiles decorated with family coats-of-arms or symbolic representations of sports or hobbies are an increasingly popular means of giving individuality to the fireplace.

Randolph Liquor Election Is Taken to Court

Pocahontas, May 22 — (AP) — Come of a special election voted out legal whiskey in Randolph county has been attacked in court.

Twenty-seven residents filed Saturday to void the election. Contestants say illegal votes were cast and that there were other irregularities in the election. The May 11 election resulted in a vote of 1,641 against legal liquor.

NUNN - McDOWELL MOTOR CO. — 3rd and Walnut St.

RIVER, STAY 'WAY FROM MY DOOR'—This farm near Blencoe, Ia., was ready when the Missouri River flooded out of its banks and came rolling up to its edges. With unusual foresight, the farmer had built an earthen dike around three sides of his property, with the roadway forming the fourth side.

THAT LOAD WAS DYNAMITE!—Twenty-thousand pounds of dynamite littered the countryside a few miles west of Denver, Colo., after a heavily-laden truck went out of control and overturned. Luck was riding with the driver, who escaped with only minor cuts.

SEVENTY-ONE BEDS! FOR HOW MANY REDS?—Neighbors to the old J. P. Morgan mansion, now on Matinecock Point, Glen Cove, N. Y., are concerned about what their new neighbor, Leonid Morozov, Soviet diplomat at the UN, plans to do with the 71 folding beds recently moved into the mansion. If he plans to use the property for a summer resort, they say, he's violating local zoning laws. The ticklish problem, now in the lap of the State Department, is whether Morozov's status as a UN diplomat makes him immune to local zoning laws.

A LONG JUMP FROM THE STUMPS—Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas begins her political campaigning as she takes off from San Francisco's ferry building to speak in the bay area. A candidate for U. S. senator, Mrs. Douglas had the help of a public address system so she can make herself heard wherever she lands.

EARTH-BOUND "METEOR"—Screaming for earth in a power dive near London is the Gloster "Meteor 8," a new British single seat jet fighter which recently set a new speed record on a round-trip flight between London and Copenhagen. The Meteor has an announced speed of well over 500 miles per hour.

TEXAS SHOWS HER ONIONS—Rep. Lloyd M. Bentsen, Jr. (D., Tex.), perhaps with a tear in his eye, receives a truckload of Texas-grown onions shipped to Washington for the state's delegation in Congress. Making the presentation, atop the truck, are: Hermila Anzaldua, McAllen, Tex., and Lolita de los Rios of El Paso, Tex.

CRASH WRECKS SECRET—Justin Dart, Jr., 19-year-old heir to a chain drug-store fortune, and the former Suzanne Swash, 17, eloped to Yuma, Ariz., last August and were married secretly. While in a delirium after a recent auto crash, Suzanne unknowingly blurted the story out to her mother, revealing the secret for the first time. The couple is seen at Mrs. Dart's home in Santa Monica, Calif., where Dart is recovering from a broken leg.

THE JUDGE STEPS OUT—Judge Roy Bean steps impatiently out of his special airplane at Chicago, having completed an 8000-mile air tour of 30 states. The Judge is a 1200-pound Hereford steer that won grand championship honors and sold for $11.50 a pound at the 1949 International Live Stock Exposition in Chicago. With the prize steer are United Air Lines pilot, Captain R. E. Parcel, R. J. McLaughlin and handler Henry Gilgillan.

FOR HIGH FLIERS—A well-dressed Washington, D. C., paratrooper shows off the Air Force's new full-blown pressure suit. It's built for flying as high as 62,000 feet—at which height you'd be dead without it.

WALKING WOMEN—Mary Wilson and Jeanette Rowatt check their worn dogs after walking down 13 floors of their New York apartment house. They were among thousands of skyscraper dwellers stranded when 12,000 building employees struck for higher wages, shorter working hours and pensions.

TOP TEACHER—Pauline V. Powers, 56, a teacher of blind students in the Chaney School, Youngstown, O., will receive $2000 as the "Best Teacher of 1950" in the annual contest of the radio Quiz Kids. Miss Powers was nominated as a contestant for the fifth consecutive year by 17-year-old Alex Chavir, who has been blind from birth and who received special help from Miss Powers from first grade on.

PROLIFIC PORKER—This little pig set some kind of a record, giving birth to 26 piglets on the farm of V. C. Morrow of Rangerville, Tex. Morrow, at left is helping to supervise the difficult feeding operation for the oversize litter.

SHUTTER GAL—Named "Florida's most photogenic girl" in a contest at Cypress Gardens, Fla., was pretty Ann Williamson.

PREPARING FOR RED TROUBLE—Berlin's West-sector police practice rounding up mock rioters during exercises aimed at meeting the Communist threat to invade Western Berlin in May.
